Open-ended Candidate Answers

District 6 State Senator Candidates

Charles C. Collins (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: I support a vouchersing system whereby parents can get a credit for their child who does not attend a public school and use that credit at a private/charter school.

Q2: Public dollars: The term "Public dollars" is more appropriately termed "Tax dollars". Parents, in part, pay these taxes and if the schools are substandard, then they should be allowed to use these dollars elsewhere.

Q3: Educational scholarships: Support - With some guidelines.

Q4: BOOST: Oppose - Scholarship programs should not be based solely on need. Without an academic standard, you risk diluting the quality of education at the accepting school.

Q5: Capital dollars: Support, in part - Such support should be factored in the vouchersing system.

Johnny Ray Salling (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: All education and having more opportunities is what makes our country different.

Q2: Public dollars: Taxes are to go to help all education

District 6 State Delegate Candidates

Robin Grammer (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: I am in full support of utilizing state education dollars to fund school choice programs, including nonprofit or private schools. I believe that students and parents should control their academic future and not be stuck in failing schools.

Q2: Public dollars: There are no public dollars - there are tax dollars. The choice of spending education dollars should be left completely to the tax payer.

Q3: Educational scholarships: Absolutely.

Q4: BOOST: I have always supported BOOST. In my time on the Appropriations Committee and with my votes, I have always voted to fund BOOST.

Valerie McDonough (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: Support the elimination of all state and local laws which prohibit the expansion of private education including Bidens proposals.

Q4: BOOST: It should be increased

Q5: Capital dollars: Especially regarding security.

Ric Metzgar (R)

Q1: Aid to nonpublic schools: You are tax payers as well

Gubernatorial Candidates

Peter Franchot (D)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I will increase funding in our grant programs and award funding to organizations that provide grassroots support for the communities they serve. Preference will always be given to public schools and state programs. However, if a nonpublic school demonstrates that they are philanthropically engaged in their communities, do not discriminate against any students, and are in need of financial assistance, I am willing to award funding on a case-by-case basis.

Q2: Public dollars: I will be an education-oriented governor, and I am committed to improving all of Maryland's public schools so that there is not a disparity in the quality of education between private and public education. That said, I have committed to maintaining the BOOST program, so long as funding is used specifically for those students who would not be able to otherwise attend the school.

Q3: Education scholarships: My funding priority will be the state's public schools. I believe support for private schools should be limited and strategic.

Q4: BOOST: I am on record in support of doubling the BOOST program to support families in need.

Q5: Capital dollars: Investment in our public schools will be the priority. I am willing to explore on a case-by-case basis the state providing support to ensure that all Maryland students can learn in a safe environment.

Douglas F. Gansler (D)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I support both robust investment in public schools as well as support for non-public schools, particularly in the areas of security, mental health professionals, and tuition assistance so that parents are empowered to send children to the school of their choice. Furthermore, as a Jewish man, I recognize and respect that some parents want to send their children to religious schools.

Q2: Public dollars: I think the sentence "public dollars are only for public schools" is loaded and suggests a zero sum game that pits private and public schools against each other. Maryland is sitting on an unprecedented surplus. I support the Blueprint's once-in-a-generation opportunity to make historic investments in our public schools, and I will work hard to implement it. I also believe that we should expand educational opportunities at non-profit and religious schools so that parents are empowered to choose the school that is right for their child.

Q3: Education scholarships: I support the use of tax dollars to empower parents to choose the right school for their child. However, Maryland should ensure that the schools who benefit from this support are held accountable to inclusive and non-discriminatory environments.

Q4: BOOST: I support increasing funding for BOOST to empower low-income families, including families who want to send their children to a religious school, to be able to afford the school of their choice.

Q5: Capital dollars: My number one priority for all schools is to ensure the safety of the students, educators, support staff and everyone on school grounds. I support allocating state tax dollars for both security and infrastructure upgrades so that all schools are safe learning environments.

Dan Cox (R)

Q1: Nonpublic school aid: I support the dollars following the children by parental choice.

Q4: BOOST: And I would expand this program.
